JUSTICE DANIEL F. COHOLAN invited great and small to luncheon yesterday with President Cosgrave of Ireland's Free State, now on his way to Ireland. Mayor Walker hoped that Cosgrave would come back some day as President "of the Irish nation." Justice Coholan, a really powerful American of Irish blood, hoped "to see Ireland free from the centre to the sea."

Mayor Walker's father and Justice Coholan fought the home rule battle together years ago.

President Cosgrave talked of practical things, as they are. He and good men like him in Ireland will make a success of the Free State. They made an excellent start, giving 39 per cent. of the State's income to educate Irish children.

The great water power now being developed in the River Shannon, enough to supply the whole State, will be the property of the Irish people, not the property of exploiters of the Irish people. That is something we don't do in America.

Samuel Untermyer, at the luncheon, told Otto H. Kahn: "This is the greatest time there ever was for lawyers, especially for good advocates. Any lawyer of ability can make a good income. Big lawyers that once appeared in court now sit in their offices, telling men like you what they may do and must not do." Mr. Kahn, you know, is very rich.

Mr. Untermyer offered to bet 5 to 2 that New York's street car trust won't succeed in raising the fare from 5 to 7 cents. Still youthful, Mr. Untermyer bet recklessly. Want a street car trust? It usually gets, especially in New York.

An unfortunate woman, falling into the hands of a medical "beauty specialist," was advised to have her "bow legs" straightened. While one doctor worked on the legs, saving the bones, another, Dr. Schreiner, was busy removing a scar from her shoulder.

Gangsters attacked the unfortunate young woman's legs. Both were amputated, and she may die. Nobody probably had noticed the poor girl's legs except herself and the man that took her money. Nothing can be done as yet as to the persons who made them.

Touch of Spring Will Continue Over Sunday

The second warmest February 4 in half a century smiled on Boston today and the touch of spring is due to continue tomorrow.

The mercury soared to 37 degrees today, an upward curve of two score points since yesterday. This mark was exceeded on February 4, 1914, when it was 38.

A cold wave is moving in this direction and by Monday it is expected to supplant the present warm area which extends northward to the St. Lawrence Valley.

WOMEN TELL OF LOSSES TO 'PHANTOM' BROKER

Four school teachers today told of losing approximately $25,000 in dealings with John P. Mullin, the "phantom" telephone salesman, who is accused by police of having mutilated $50,000 from persons of moderate means through his Boston brokerage office.

These teachers declared they invested their funds, as they believed, in the best type of bonds, but though the bonds they ordered were sold, they lost their money because Mullin never delivered the goods.

Miss Leah Sorel, appearing in municipal court, accompanied by the inspector George Farrell, asserted her loss amounted to more than $11,000. Miss Aurora Sorel told of losing more than $5,000. Miss Lillian M. Clark, $2,000, and Miss May Sheedy, $3,000. Miss Sheedy lives and teaches in New Bedford, the others in Fall River.

PHANTOM STOCK BROKER FACES NEW CHARGE

Many other complaints have been received by the police, and Inspector Farrell, Fishery and Joyce are investigating them.

Mullen, who lives in Tarenton road, Newton, and was conducted a brokerage office in 3100 street, was termed "the phantom telephone salesman" by the police because he employed the telephone almost exclusively in his sales of securities. Police say his success was amazing—that he seldom failed.

Mullen is now held on a charge of larceny of $1,776 worth of jewelry from John Altering of Washington street. Although police asked him bail, because of the many other complaints received, Attorney Peter Bore, representing Mullen, succeeded in having the bail limited to $2,000, based entirely on the one specific charge on which he was arrested.

Among the complaints the authorities are investigating is one from the Westminster hotel, charging that he owes $250, and one from the Kennam, alleging a debt of $250. The Westminster is said to be holding Mullen's fur coat and other clothing because of nonpayment of his bill.

joined in offering help in the form of money, clothing, or whatever might be needed.

The city officials are frank to admit that their greatest fear is the possible epidemic of typhoid fever, though they say at the same time that the threat of this has been greatly exaggerated.

Problem of Jobless

The most immediate problem faced by the city as a result of Thursday night's conflagration is that of 2,000 made jobless by the destruction of mills, banks, hotels and office buildings in which they were employed.

Because of the present employment situation here this is viewed as more than a local problem with its solution as work temporary at least, outside the city. A special effort in behalf of those thrown out of work by the fire will probably be made by the city.

On the ruins of old Fall River there will rise one of the finest and most modern cities in the country, planned and constructed under the direction of Robert Shurtliff, Boston architect and city planning expert.

Fall River residents, even in their pride and optimism, admit that the city needs changing. The business district, while spotted with modern buildings, was in its entirety of the remarkable order.

ENGAGED SHURTLEFF

But now the city's planning board announces that it has engaged the services of Shurtliff and the work of rehabilitation will be begun immediately.

Fall River, according to the leading citizens, is not hard hit in a pecuniary sense. The property loss, which will total, it is expected something over $4,000,000, according to the last analysis, was covered in greater part by insurance.

By Monday the new committee of 15 citizens will be named.

The creation of such a committee was voted on by some 500 citizens assembled in the Aldermanic chamber at City Hall, the business of the meeting being illuminated by the flickering flare of lanterns, lamps and candles.

Major Monks will name three men, and each of these men will name four others to serve on this committee whose functions will be as vital to the new Fall River.

The father of this suggestion was such a committee was Robert W. Powers, director of two of the seven banks that went down before the flames. He urged that all differences of political religion, be forgotten in this crisis, and that "red-headed Americans who cannot be bought politically or financially be chosen for the committee."

Meanwhile offers of help for the stricken city pour in from every corner of the land. The Red Cross has sent on its national director of disaster relief, Henry M. Baker, to look over the city and report its immediate needs.

Governor Fuller was first to suggest a relief fund, offering his own check for $1,000, as the first contribution, and sending Lieutenant Governor Allen here to represent him and to give Fall River every aid within the power of the State.

Local organizations, as well as national charitable societies, have

say he confessed setting the blaze because he was all alone and wanted excitement.

State Fire Marshal George C. Neal and his assistants entered the inquiry on request of Boston authorities.

The foundry is owned by George W. and Arthur Gibby, brothers.

The former declared that the second fire in two nights at his plant looked suspicious to him, as though somebody had a grudge against him or his brother.

Three alarms were sounded because of the close proximity of wooden houses and tenements.

The fire the preceding night which destroyed the patent shop, a three-story wooden building, had threatened the neighborhood.

The second fire started in the core room, where cores for motors and castings are made. The core room was situated in the main building, a frame structure shunted with red brick.

When this fire was discovered flames were shooting up through the entire building, leaping high into the air and into the sky. Similarly the fire the night previous was going full blast when discovered.

BRIDE DRAWS THE PLANS AND THE GROOM BUILDS THE HOME

STARTING ON THEIR HONEYMOON

BUT THEY FIRST BUILT THEIR HOME
Mr. and Mrs. Pierce Fitzgerald leaving for their honeymoon at Atlantic City after their marriage at St. Catherine's Church, Somerville, today. He joined the Carpenters' Union to build his own home on plans that his bride made. He is a former B. C. hockey star, and she is a graduate of the Garland School of Home Making.

LOVE NEST FOR TWO READY AT WEYMOUTH

"I'll build for you a little nest with my two loving arms," said Pierce Fitzgerald, former Boston College hockey star, as he worked on a "love nest" in Weymouth, the completion of which was followed by his marriage today to Miss Eleanor Harrington of Somerville.

Fitzgerald, son of M. E. Fitzgerald, superintendent of the Cambridge school, took out a card in the Carpenters' Union so that he might build a bungalow according to plans drawn by his bride-to-be, who had graduated from the Garland School of Home Making.

The house was completed in plenty of time for the wedding, and will be occupied by the couple after June 1.

The wedding ceremony was performed in the Church of St. Catherine of Genoa, Spring Hill, Somerville, by the groom's brother, the Rev. Gerald C. Fitzgerald of Brighton.

The wedding breakfast was held at the Fitz-Carlton, after which Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald departed for a honeymoon to New York and Atlantic City.

The new Mrs. Fitzgerald is the wife of No. 49 Holbrook street, Somerville. She had drawn up plans of a home she wanted for herself and her husband, but the contractors seemed unable to quite grasp the idea. Pierce Fitzgerald did, however, and so decided to build the house himself.

He joined the Carpenters' Union and in November went to South Weymouth and started work on the bungalow, which is located on the old homestead land of his father.

The bungalow is of frame construction, with six rooms, situated on the brow of a hill off Oak street, and commanding a fine view. It was finished in time to permit the bride to furnish and decorate it before the wedding.

"MARRY AGAIN? I ALWAYS DO" NEXT WILL BE FIFTH

DIVORCED

Jessie Reed, former Ziegfeld beauty, lost her fourth husband when she was legally freed from William T. Young of Indianapolis. Her third husband was "Danny" Caswell, scion of a wealthy Cleveland family. She says she will marry once more. It is the usual thing in her life, she laughingly declared.

JOHN D.'S LONG LIFE EASY TO SIMPLE HEART

LOVES QUIET GAMES, SAYS PRIEST

New York, Feb. 4 (A.P.)—The Sun today quotes the Rev. Patrick J. Lennon, a Catholic priest just returned from a three weeks' visit with John D. Rockefeller in Florida, as attributing the oil magnate's longevity to his simplicity of heart, despite his riches.

Father Lennon said that he played golf at Ormond Beach with Mr. Rockefeller and in the evenings played a game in which little pieces of parchment were used.

"It is a very easy game," he said, "but just affords a little relaxation. The life there was very simple. Mr. Rockefeller is a very simple man at heart. Little things please him. But apart from his tastes a man has to be simple if he wants to have a long life. That's one thing about too much luxury and self-indulgence. The man who is too luxurious dies early."

The priest said he found Mr. Rockefeller apparently as strong physically and mentally, as when he first met 25 years ago when Father Lennon was pastor of a church at Pocomtunk, N. Y., close to the Rockefeller Summer home. He believed that the regularity of Mr. Rockefeller's life had much to do with this.

"His life is absolutely regular," he said. "He wouldn't be what he is, wearing glasses, but can see without them. But he saves his eyes by having some one read to him instead of reading a great deal himself."

"He has a remarkable memory. Can remember back eighty years. But that isn't so unusual, for many being what occurred in recent years being what they were, but I cannot see that Mr. Rockefeller has changed in this way. He recalls very clearly the happenings of recent years."

JESSIE REED GETS FOURTH DIVORCE

Chicago, Feb. 4 (A.P.)—Jessie Reed, whose third husband was the late "Danny" Caswell of Cleveland, has divorced her fourth mate so quietly that although it happened three months ago the fact has only just become known.

Miss Reed, well known as a Ziegfeld beauty and because of her marital adventures, was granted a decree by Judge Sullivan in the Superior Court here October 21 from William T. Young, an automobile man of Indianapolis. The record shows that cruelty was the ground for divorce.

Young and Miss Reed were married late on the night of February 24, 1924. Following the ceremony the former Police girl was quoted as saying she was going to find "a little bit of a fit in the suburbs and keep house."

That was what she did. She lived with her husband for some time in an unpretentious flat in Evanston, a North Shore suburb, and when his business required that he move to Indianapolis she went along.

It wasn't the smaller town that caused the divorce, Miss Reed said yesterday, as quoted by today's Herald-Examiner. "In fact, I really enjoyed it. It was just—oh, I don't know—you can't expect any marriage to last forever, can you? Well, it is a sweet kid and we were happy."

MATED IN RADIO ROMANCE

MR. AND MRS. REINALD WERRENKATH
The marriage of the baritone to the former Verna True Neidig of Chevre Chase was revealed today as a radio match. His singing has been broadcast frequently and through a publicity agent for Alwater Kent he met his bride-to-be. The photo was taken when they were at Miami. They are today in Buffalo, N. Y.

For three years, then we separated so I suppose I will. I got a divorce. No alimony was asked, the records indicating a settlement had been made.

OFFICER SHOT BY BROTHER POLICEMAN

The accidental shooting of Patrolman John J. McDonald, a member of "A" squad, William W. Livingston's "flying squad," by Patrolman Francis O'Connor, also of the mobile detail, was revealed today after it had been kept a department secret since Thursday.

McDonald is at St. Elizabeth's Hospital with a bullet hole in his right arm. According to the police, he and O'Connor, with guns drawn, alighted from a police car at Harvard avenue, Allston, to question occupants of a car which they had been pursuing, and McDonald bumped into O'Connor's arm.

O'Connor's gun was discharged accidentally and the bullet entered McDonald's arm.

A similar accident occurred several weeks ago, when members of the "flying squad" were descending the stairs at police headquarters carrying arrested subjects. In some manner one of the guns misfired and the charge tore great holes in the wall, narrowly missing one of the officers.

STAGE AND SCREEN

LAUGHS FOR HUMOR HUNTERS AND TEARS FOR THE SENTIMENTAL IN NEW FILMS

"I Only Done Me Duty, Sir"

Allan Forrest played Sally O'Neil 327 times during the filming of "The Lovelorn." Not all these scenes, however, will be found on the screens of the Olympia and Fenway next week as most of them were re-takes. The band will now play, "Kiss Me Again"—if it dares.

It Takes Nerve to Do This

Syd Chaplin in "The Fortune Hunter," at the Modern and Beacon, tells this one: "A landlord wrote to his tenant, 'Dear Sir, my rent is much overdue, kindly oblige me with your check.' Back went the answer, 'I see no reason why I should pay your rent, I can't pay my own.'"

ANY LITTLE GIRL who rides with strange men is not the kind of girl Sally O'Neil is in the film, "The Lovelorn." In the film, Larry Kent is NOT strange—just queer.

SIMPLE AND UNAFFECTED by these high-heeled modern times is Nora Cecil in "The Fortune Hunter" at the Modern. Nora plays a landlady because she likes that peppermint flavor.

HIGH HEELS are being worn this year by all the smart people. In "The Kossuth Hour" at the Keith-Albee Boston Marie Prevost believes in wearing 'em higher than anybody else. She is just a laundry girl here, and clothes are a great problem to her.

NOT A GRAND OPERA in "The Love of Carmen" (Orpheum), but a sizzling drama of old 60-bills where they play rough. Dolores Del Rio and Don Alvarado are seen here "in character."

"SHAKE," chirps William Haines, "with the paw that once held the hand of the great John L. Sullivan." But Cadet Haines is particular. ("West Point," State.)

SIX NOONANS TAKE OVER HOLLYWOOD

By LEO GAFFNEY

SIX Noonans of Bayonne, N. J., seem to have gone into the films in a body. Four of them are present and accounted for in "The Lovelorn," the new Beatrice Fairfax picture at the Olympia and Fenway. From the same source that grudgingly permitted this much to leak out we learn that two more Noonans sat around while the picture was being made—just out of camera range—and offered wise counsel, hot tips, etc., to the acting members of the family. This latter pair, having never made a picture, were well equipped to do this, of course.

THREE Noonans? Don't you know? Why, one of them is called Sally O'Neil, another is Molly O'Day, a third is Isabelle O'Neill and a fourth is Jack Noonan (a line). The other two must be named—until they grow a little more and the publicity department can think up three or four syllabic apices that will sound good with movie titles. But you will hear from these youngsters yet, for the Molly O'Day, the blood of the great Costello (the Irish theater's pride, you know) is surging through their veins. And you can't stop a Costello, especially when he's surging, as everybody knows.

WHEN Sally O'Neil was just Josie moved from Bayonne to Los Angeles for a change of air. Now Virginia, or Sally—as the case may be—liked to dance, strange to say. But, even stranger to say, who should catch her at it but Marshall Nelson. Well, it so happened that this was at the Hotel Ambassador at the time Mr. Nelson was covering the universe for the right girl to fit the title role in "Mike." And we want to say right here that when "N. Nelson" starts associating with Josie, she generally cleans up big.

A hotel ballroom is as good a place to scour as any other, Mr. Nelson was there. Suddenly catching sight of Miss O'Neil (nee Noonan), he turned excitedly to Mrs. Nelson and said: "Blanche," for it was Blanche Sweet, if you must know, "Blanche," said he, "there's Mike!" "Well," exclaimed Mrs. Nelson (Sweet, these names), "well, well, sure, Mike!" Introductions and contracts being in order—and delivered—the world and "Mike" could be seen.

IT "The Lovelorn" Sally and Molly play "sister" parts and are featured in the billing. Jack and Isabelle do not appear on the advance program, they are as yet in the "resting" class, and the youngest twosome, of course, are invisible. But we had all better keep an eye on this family. It will be watching. If the rest look away, the two will be there. Tomorrow then let it rain Noonans all over Hollywood—and let names roll how they may.

JEANNE NOW WITH DRAMA

Jeanne Greene, brunette beauty, who plays opposite William Haines in John Golden's "Four Walls," which comes to the Hollis on Monday, is a product of musical comedy.

Although the little tough-girl of "Four Walls" can sing and dance with remarkable efficiency, she isn't at all disappointed that fate seems to cast her in different roles. Scarcely out of her teens, she has played leading roles opposite such stars as Louis Mann, Grant Mitchell and Taylor Holmes.

Notwithstanding the fact that her song and dance number, "The Most Little Thing" in "Bank of 1928," stamped her as a real musical comedy "find," she made no mistake in recently declaring "I'm going to devote my efforts to drama exclusively."

At the little Spanish star in "The Buccaneer," Miss Greene gave first serious evidence of eventual abandonment her musical comedy career. Her great Broadway chance came when John Golden cast her as the "Red Side" "moll" in the Barrow-Abbott production.

Entertain Movie Star for Less Than a Dollar!

How much money does it take to entertain a movie star for an evening? Joan Crawford can probably entertain the town for the cost of all—two points. Crawford took her own point, and she is entitled here for the size of $125 (for all three).

To top it off, the couple borrowed two dollars from the bank. Two of the couple asked her out for an evening. Now, costs are not allowed. Crawford took her own point, and she is entitled here for the size of $125 (for all three).

SEGOVIA RETURNS Andres Segovia, the remarkable Spanish guitarist, announces a new and entirely different style of program for his return recital in Boston. The concert will be given in the Music Hall, February 12th, in symphony hall.

During the making of "Wings," at the Tremont, Charles Rogers borrowed $10 from Richard Arlen. Weeks later Arlen reminded Rogers, "Don't worry about that ten!" Much surprised, Rogers said, "Don't you want it?" "Well," sighed Arlen, "no use of us both worrying about it."

National Stars Run in B. A. A. Meet Tonight

B. C. RELAY STAR. Captain Frank "Babe" Daley of Boston College will run in the one-mile and two-mile relay races at the B. A. A. track games at the Boston Arena tonight. "Babe" is one of the best middle-distance men in college ranks today.

B. A. A. DASH FAVORITE. Al Miller, formerly of Harvard, will wear the colors of the B. A. A. at the Arena tonight in the 40-yard dash. The dash is one of the feature events of tonight's meet. The 200-pound Dorchester boy will have classier competition tonight than he had at the K. of C. games.

B. U. ENTRY. Ernie Morrill, Boston University's star dashman for the past two years, will run in the 40-yard dash at the Arena tonight. Ernie is not expected to win running against such stars as Miller and Wildermuth, but he is certain to make it interesting for whoever wins. Ernie has placed in every big meet held in the East this Winter. He will wind up his track career at the intown college in June.

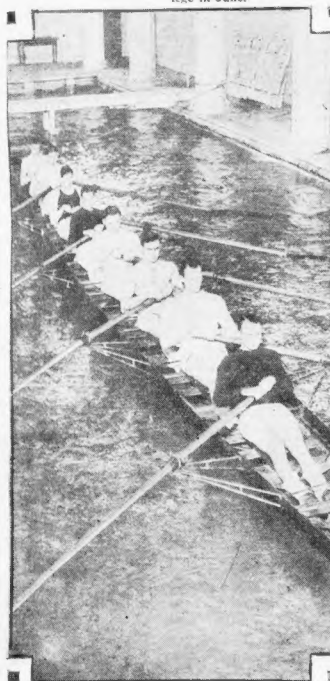

JUST ANOTHER VICTORY. Lloyd Hahn, the best middle-distance runner in the United States, today is expected to have little trouble winning the Hunter Mile at the 39th annual B. A. A. meet tonight. Lloyd has not been defeated indoors this year.

UP IN THE WIDE OPEN SPACES. He is up right side up and he will land the same way for the ski jumper is G. L. Jungstrom, champion of Sweden. This photo was taken at the Hammarby Course, which is near Stockholm. It's a great sport for people with strong hearts. In order to make the sport universal, parachutes should be provided for the meeker people.

LEAP THAT ENTERED PADDOCK IN THE LIMELIGHT. Charlie Paddock, the fastest human, is shown finishing in his inimitable manner. His leap at the finish is a work of art. Charlie is training at Los Angeles for the Olympic games that will be held in Amsterdam next Summer.

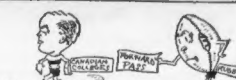

FULL SPEED AHEAD TO NOWHERE. University of Pennsylvania crew is working out in its indoor tank daily. The shell is fastened to the tank. The U. of Penn. new coach, "Rusty" Callow, formerly of Washington, believes that this is excellent preliminary work.

WHEN NORMA STARTS, RECORDS GO. Miss Norma Zilk of the University of Illinois is one of the best feminine sprinters in the country. She is the holder of four dash records.

SECRETS OF MR. FRISBY

Editor's Note—This utterly frank entry has been ignored by the pollsters and the courts and refused by the critics.

DEDICATION

This book is dedicated to misunderstanding fathers everywhere. And, as we wonder what is wrong with the world! The author has but one motive and that is locked in his heart. Readers of this book who agree with the author are invited to write briefly, and on one side of the paper, only.

"And of course," says the Rev. Mr. Wiley, "there's the boss who stands awake all night to see if he talked in his sleep."

FOREWARD
The author desires to express gratitude to Sears-Roebuck & Co. for the use of data and illustrations from their catalogue.
